SMASHING BRITISH SUCCESS IN DAVIS CUP

Amazing Reversal of 1932 Wimbledon Final

H. W. Austin and Ellsworth Vines. Austin did not need more than four rackets!

VINES SWEEP OFF THE COURT

WONDERFUL DISPLAY BY AUSTIN

PERRY WINS EASILY

The greatest shock the tennis world has enjoyed for years was given by two English players on the dirt-surfaced courts at the Stade Roland Garros, Paris yesterday, when H. W. ("Bunny") Austin and Fred J. Perry overwhelmed America's select in the first two matches of the Davis Cup Inter-Zone final.

Perry playing against Allison. His superb volleying gave him an easy victory.

WORST THOUGHT TO BE OVER

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By "Telegraph," Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1933. Received, July 22, 7.54 a.m.)

Washington, July 21. It is learned that the Administration is prepared to take drastic action, if necessary, to halt violent fluctuations in commodities and securities. Officials are watching the markets very closely. Some brokers believe that the slump, which caused the break has now been corrected. It appears certain that the markets were in an overbought position due to the fact that the markets were honeycombed with speculative accounts. — United Press. Per Gold Bar Co.

NO ACTION.

Washington, July 21. It is understood that President Roosevelt does not contemplate any action in connexion with the spectacular break on the Stock Exchange. He considers that undue attention has been paid to the fluctuation in stock prices. With the object of raising the purchasing powers of the workers, President Roosevelt is pressing forward with his gigantic public works programme, while General Hugh Johnson has urged the Chamber of Commerce of all the larger towns to organise community drives to secure the adoption of temporary voluntary codes for hours and wages. — Reuter.

FURTHER LOSSES.

New York, July 21. Further crashes in stock prices occurred to-day some of the speculative counters being particularly badly hit. Most of the grain exchanges were closed, owing to yesterday's debacle. Half the gains of the last few months have been wiped out.

STOP PRESS

London July 22. Canadian Premier, Mr. Bennett, early this morning, denied that Canada blocked Mr. Pittman's silver proposals. It is now understood that the principal stumbling block to a complete silver agreement occurred when it was revealed that Spain possessed 180,000,000 more ounces of silver than originally stated. — United Press.

Ellsworth Vines, commonly known as "tennis dynamite," the man who swept Austin off the court and made him appear a second rate player at Wimbledon in 1932, was himself overwhelmed by the young Englishman losing 6-1, 6-1, 6-4.

It was an inspiring demonstration and its effect on Perry, who engaged Wilmer Allison in the second singles of the day, was for the ex-miner M.P.'s son to treat the American in the most cavalier fashion and to put Britain two up with a victory of 6-1, 7-5, 6-4.

PERRY'S BRILLIANT VOLLEYING

Britain's ultimate victory in the tie is now almost assured. One of the remaining three rubbers has to be secured, and chief hopes rest on Austin, who is expected to beat Allison.

Everybody is now asking "Can Britain win the Davis Cup for the first time since 1912?" In that year C. P. Dixon, A. W. Gore and H. Roper Barrett beat France in the Challenge Round.

A point of interest is that Mr. Roper Barrett is non-playing captain of the present team. To-day, George P. Hughes and Fred Perry will endeavour to seize their opportunity to finish off the match for Britain.

They will meet George Lott and John Van Ryn in the doubles, and although, perhaps, British partisans may be expecting too much for a victory here, such a result is by no means out of the question.

If Hughes can be inspired by his colleagues' brilliance of yesterday, the Americans may find themselves out of the tournament this evening.

The following description of yesterday's matches is sent by Reuter:

AUSTIN v. VINES.

The British Colony at Auteuil turned up in force to see Austin accomplish what was generally considered an impossibility. The match was played under sub-tropical sun, and Vines, who took first service, immediately put into effect his forehand game. He won his service to take the lead. Austin, wearing a jockey cap and shorts, played short drop shots to Vines's backhand and quickly had the tall Californian in trouble. The Englishman levelled at one-all, and then exploited a series of brilliant sharply-angled shots which forced Vines to the net.

As he came up Austin, with amazing skill passed him down the sidelines.

The Englishman faced Vines's hurricane service manfully, and broke through in the third game after a series of deuces.

VINES BREAKS DOWN.

Vines completely broke down through striving to crush his opponent with whirlwind forehand drives, and he seemed rattled. As the game proceeded Austin became more and more confident, and producing rhythmic and unerring volleys.

Vines made a momentary effort in the second set, when he twice ached Austin with terrific service shots and levelled at one-all.

But the American again broke down in attempting to generate his normal speed on the dirt surfaced court. He proceeded to make inexcusable mistakes and served several double faults.

Austin went right away and captured the set with the loss of one game.

The Englishman broke through to lead one love in the third set, but Vines, forsaking hard driving, successfully lobbed and assumed an advantage of two games to one. Austin staided up and went away to a 4-2 lead and then 5-3, but lost the ninth game by over-driving. The end, however, was in sight, and Austin, serving accurately and volleying well, captured his own service for the set and match.

PERRY v. ALLISON.

Allison started his match against Perry by showing an inclination to overhit.

Perry, volleying superbly, easily took the first set which last only ten minutes. He won it at 6-1.

Allison was canner in the second set, and volleyed with much more certainty and effect. In fact the whole quality of the player became higher.

With Perry, still operating at the net, but notting badly, Allison went into a 3-1 lead and increased this to 4-2.

Perry staged a clever recovery and a series of attacks on each other's backhand resulted in the Englishman coming out on top and levelled at five-all.

After this Perry resumed his fine volleying and took a magnificent lower game to capture the second set at 7-5.

UNANSWERABLE KILLS.

Perry was so superior in the third stanza, that he found his task an easy one. Attacking with unanswerable overhead kills, he led 8-1. It enticed him to slacken up and Allison taking what advantage he could, drew up to four-all.

Perry, however, regained his touch, and went to his points in the following two games.

His Excellency the Governor has been pleased to appoint Mr. Allison to be a member of the Board of Education, for a further period of two years, with effect from the 1st July, 1933.

WILEY POST OFF AGAIN

STILL A CHANCE OF RECORD

New York, July 21. Wiley Post is up and away again, determined not to give up until all chance of the record has disappeared.

His crash at Flat did not materially damage the main structure of his machine, the Winnie Mae, the principal damage being to the propeller and under-carriage.

A new propeller was fixed and after hurried repairs were necessary. Post took the air again at 6.28 p.m. British Summer Time.

He arrived at Fairbanks at 21.22 hours British Summer Time and intends to take off for Edmonton as soon as the plane has been given another brief overhaul.

He was over thirty hours ahead of his previous time when he met with his mishap in Alaska, but the delay occasioned was only about twelve hours and with ordinary good luck, of which he has not enjoyed the best so far, he should establish a new record. But for rain and mist which caused him to miss his way, he would have been at Fairbanks last night. — Reuter.

NEW GERMAN AGITATION

RETURN OF COLONIES DEMANDED

Berlin, July 21.

A German colonial propaganda exhibition, designed to show what immense values lie in the former German colonies, was opened to-day by the Lord Mayor, Dr. Sahn, in the presence of Government and high Nazi officials.

Dr. Sahn declared: "We don't ask the right to the soil, but demand it on behalf of the German people. The people are without room, which makes it a nation without life." — Reuter.

LINDBERGH'S HELD UP BY FOG

COMPELLED TO LAND AT HOPEDALE

New York, July 21.

Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh took off from Cartwright, Labrador, to-day on their flight to Greenland. They were, however, compelled to land at Hope Dale, Labrador, about 100 miles from their destination, owing to fog. — Reuter.

AMERICAN PLAN FOR CONFERENCE

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By "Telegraph," Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1933. Received, July 21, 7.54 a.m.)

London, July 21. The Secretariat of the World Economic Conference has issued a fifteen-thousand word report by the Economic Commission, detailing the result of six weeks' talk.

It shows that there have been only two unanimous agreements and these upon purely abstract questions, merely re-affirming agreements already known to exist months ago.

The first refers to the lowering of excessive tariffs and declares that action to this end is absolutely essential.

The second refers to the advisability of continuing negotiations on various economic objects. — United Press. Per Gold Bar Co.

THE HULL SCHEME.

London, July 21. Mr. Cordell Hull's suggested programme for commercial policy to be developed during the recess, says down that government represented at the Conference shall agree to cease erecting new trade barriers and to seek agreements for a progressive reduction of existing trade barriers.

The agreement in regard to the non-imposition of new barriers will be subject to reservations, including additional duties upon dumped goods.

FIFTY PER CENT. NEEDED.

The agreement will be open to adhesion by all governments and will come into force when accepted by governments representing fifty per cent. of the world's international commerce.

It will be of indefinite duration, but a year after its enforcement it may be denounced upon a month's notice. — Reuter.

AMERICAN SCHEME.

In its plenary session this evening, the Economic Commission of the World Economic Conference received the report of its rapporteur, Mr. Walter Runciman, in outline this morning.

The Chairman, Doctor Colijn, read a letter from the chief United States delegate, Mr. Cordell Hull, expressing the hope that during the conference recess, the governments, through diplomatic and other channels, would produce substantial proposals towards fulfilling the fundamental purpose of the conference.

Mr. Hull enclosed a proposal of a possible agreement for a protracted truce against measures restrictive of international trade.

AUSTRALIA'S VIEWS.

During the discussion of the report, the Australian Minister in London, Mr. Stanley Bruce, emphasised that Australia, although willing to co-operate in seeing what action could be taken in regard to a particular commodity, was not prepared to subscribe to the principle of the restriction of production, which he maintained would not achieve the general objective of conference.

A special drafting committee was set up to realise, in the light of the discussion, the text of commission's report. — British Wireless.

Fire completely burnt out a hut at Au Kung Nam, above Shau Shan, yesterday. A hawk, escaping from a stove, is said to have been the cause. The hut is valued at $200. — Wireless.

GANDHI'S LATEST

CREDITED WITH A SECRET PLAN

CALL FOR SUPPORT FROM STUDENTS

Poona, July 21.

A new secret plan for civil disobedience is being prepared by Mahatma Gandhi at Ahmedabad, according to authoritative information.

He is visiting his Ashram Training College and it is believed that the object of his visit is to rally two hundred of the students in support of the plan.

Gandhi is understood to be demanding the very highest standard of discipline from his followers, including celibacy, and the undertaking to work actively among the Untouchables.

The method of Gandhi's plan suggests that he has resigned himself to the impossibility of carrying the country with him on a programme of mass civil disobedience, and it seems evident also that he is aware that he is not likely to meet with very wide support from Congress on a policy of individual disobedience. — Reuter.

RUBBER OUTLOOK GOOD

THE PROSPECTS OF RESTRICTION

Amsterdam, July 21.

The well-known rubber producer, Mr. Burger says that the prospects of the success of restriction are very favourable.

On the other hand, it is not anticipated that a restriction scheme will be carried out before next year or that British territories will accept the potential production as the basis of restriction, but rather the actual export figures.

It is confirmed that Dr. Waals, the chief of the Economic Department of the Colonial Office, has been in London with Dr. Colijn, with a view to participating in restriction discussions.

The Dutch members of the International Working Committee are now in London. — Reuter.

DARING DAYLIGHT THEFT

BANK MESSENGER ROBBED

A daring theft of an envelope containing $1,500, the property of the manager of the San Yu Bank, perpetrated outside the Queen's Theatre, had a sequel in the Central Magistracy this morning.

The envelope was in the pocket of a foki walk-in in Queen's Road Central. Defendant suddenly held a bamboo hat to the foki's face. He put up his hands and was robbed of the money by a second man, who escaped with the haul.

Hearing was fixed for Friday next at 2.30 p.m., when Mr. P. H. Sin will appear for the defence.

HUGE SURPLUS OF G.P.O.

RECORD OF $1,792,000 SHOWN

London, July 21.

The General Post Office for the year, amounts to $1,792,000, the largest ever recorded. — Wireless.

CANADA'S OBJECTION

AGREEMENT READY FOR INITIALLING

MR. PITTMAN'S CONFIDENCE

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By "Telegraph," Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1933. Received, July 21, 7.54 a.m.)

London, July 21. The eight leading silver countries met to-day at Senator Pittman's suite at Claridge Hotel and conferred upon the projected eight-power agreement for some considerable time.

It is understood that only questions of the phraseology of the agreement remain undecided.

The meeting was adjourned until three o'clock to-morrow (Saturday) when it is hoped that they will be able to reach a complete agreement.

The failure to consummate the agreement to-day is said to have been due entirely to an unexpected Canadian objection offered after the draft agreement had been approved article by article.

READY FOR INITIALLING.

Later.

The United Press learns that the Eight-Power Silver Agreement has been re-drafted ready for initialling late on Saturday.

The agreement is divided into two sections, affecting the producing and the holding countries.

Senator Key Pittman said he is confident that Canada will not obstruct the initialling of the agreement. — United Press. Per Gold Bar Co.

ANOTHER BATHING TRAGEDY

Chinese Youth Drowned at North Point

Another swimming fatality, the third reported in the season, occurred yesterday, when So Yau-ling, a schoolboy, aged 18, was drowned while in the water off the new reclamation opposite the Tsang Fook Biao Factory at North Point.

The unfortunate lad was in the water for some ten minutes before he got into difficulties. His cries for assistance brought a number of workmen on the reclamation, to the locality, but before assistance could be rendered, he had disappeared.

The body was recovered later with the assistance of the Police from Quarry Bay.

The deceased lived with his parents at No. 93, Johnstone Road, Wanchai.

Limber Up Your Legs, Back, With the 'High Scissors'

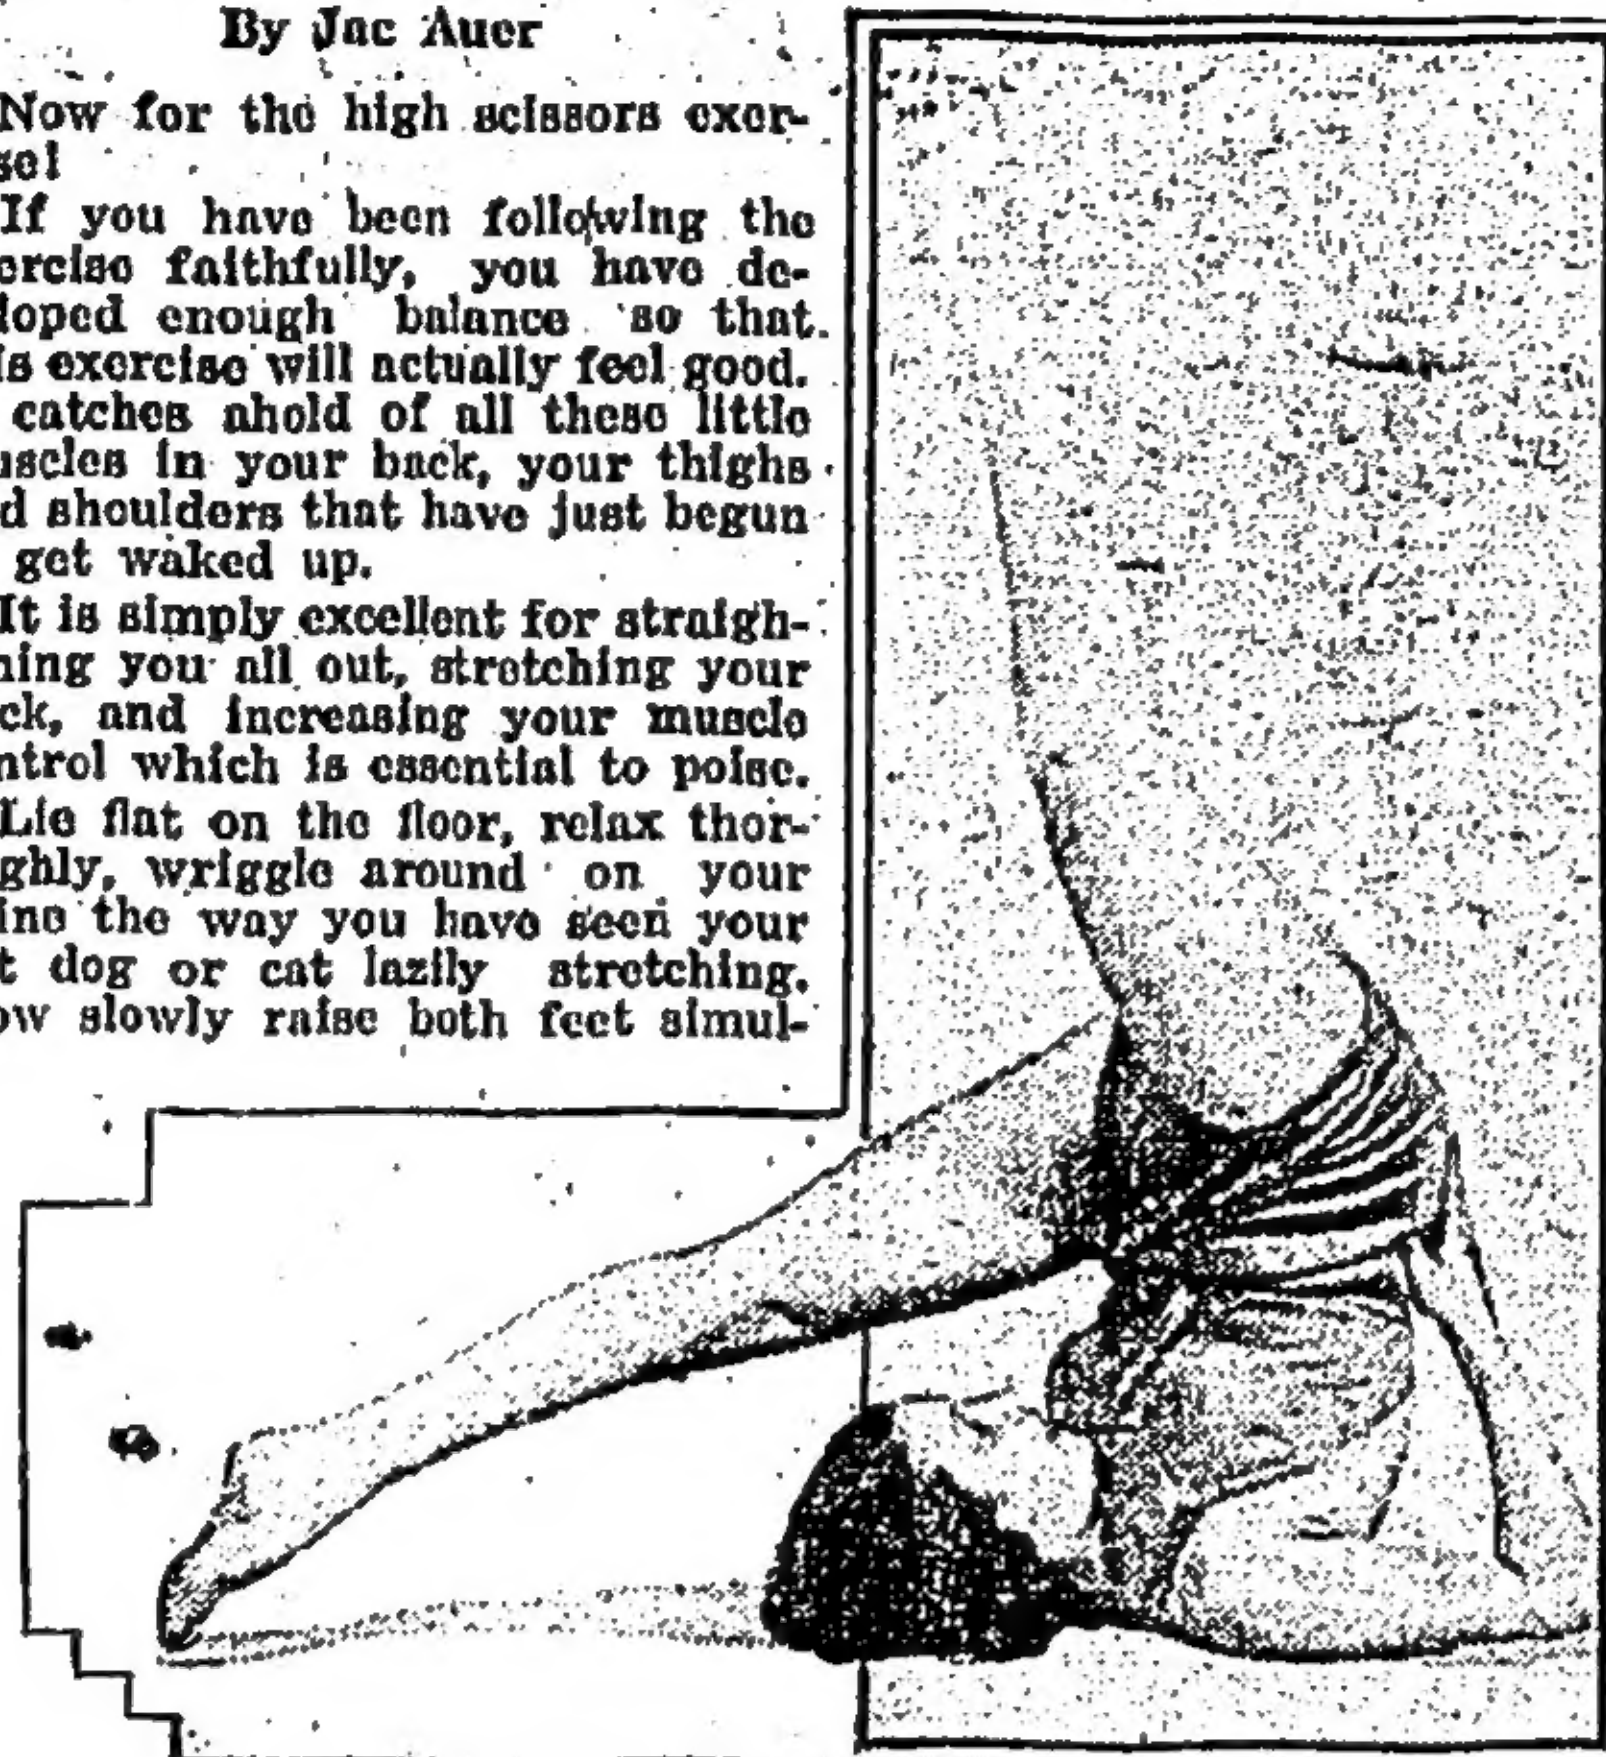

By Jac Auer

Now for the high scissors exercise!

If you have been following the exercise faithfully, you have developed enough balance so that this exercise will actually feel good. It catches hold of all these little muscles in your back, your thighs and shoulders that have just begun to get waked up.

It is simply excellent for straightening you all out, stretching your back, and increasing your muscle control which is essential to poise.

Lie flat on the floor, relax thoroughly, wriggle around on your spine the way you have seen your pet dog or cat lazily stretching. Now slowly raise both feet simultaneously, knees straight, arches of your feet open, which is accomplished by pointing your toes.

Should stand with high scissors... good for spine, neck, shoulders.

Turn your heels out slightly, as this gives you the natural toed-in position. When your feet point skyward, raise yourself up onto your shoulders, bracing your back with your two arms resting on the floor.

Now begin the high scissors, which consists of touching the floor with the toes of one foot while the other leg is stretched directly above you, alternating so that your legs pass each other. Let your knees rub as they pass, that helps get rid of that fat that accumulates on the inside of your knees.

Do the high scissors only a few times the first day. Increase your count until each foot has touched the floor over your head 10 times.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

By Alicia Hart

Care of the skin is no longer the complicated task it once was. Cosmetics are so simply made these days and you need so few of them that a successful formula for the nightly care of your complexion can be laid down in very few words and carried out in even less time.

Never go to bed without thoroughly cleansing your face. Nothing is worse for the pores of your skin than cosmetics left on over night.

If your skin reacts favourably to soap and water by all means use it. If not, cleansing cream is essential. After every trace of dust and make-up has been removed take a little piece of clean cotton dipped in an astringent and pat your face and neck. An astringent closes the pores and gives your complexion a general toning up.

After the astringent has dried rub a little tissue cream on your face and neck. Leave it on all night. Tissue cream is invaluable if you wish to keep your skin fresh and youthful.

Massaging is accomplished easily if you put your creams on in the right manner. For instance, when you apply cleansing cream, use it generously and slap it on your face. Then, using a circular movement, swish the cream around in circles until all the dirt is loosened.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

By Alicia Hart

It is just a toss-up what is the most uncomfortable thing you can have on your feet—ingrown nails, corns, calluses, blisters.

Usually you are sure it is whatever you have!

Ingrown nails call for continued soaking in hot soap suds until the nail is soft. Then, with sterilized instruments, pry out the nail from its bed of soft flesh and place a bit of sterilized cotton between the nail and the flesh. Be very careful about cutting the nail while the corner of your toe is sore. It is much safer to go to a foot specialist and this often saves money in the long run.

If you are inclined to have ingrown nails, cut your toe nails straight across, the way nurses cut babies' nails, don't try to shape them or point them.

Corns must be lifted out, if you don't want the process repeated very soon. This takes a practiced hand, to be done right. But if you do it yourself, a pair of pedicure scissors, sterilized, should be used after you have soaked your feet thoroughly. Often certain manufactured corn plasters prove efficacious.

If your corns are between your toes, it is foolish to try to operate on them yourself. One trip to the chiropodist usually cures them. But, be sure to dry your feet very carefully between the toes, every time you wash them, and put a bit of cotton between the affected toes during the day.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

Keeping Cool Is A Social Obligation

By Alicia Hart

Keeping cool in summertime is a social obligation. Your disposition is so affected by the way you feel. Your fellow workers in an office and your home folks all will appreciate it if you can stay pleasantly comfortable, with unruffled temper, through the hottest days.

A cold shower mornings and a hot tub evenings are the first daily item to jot down on your summer schedule. Pine needle bath salts, or cooling lavender salts, plus some bath soap to match in cooling fragrance, should be put down next. Bath powder, foot powder, deodorants and cologne all should be on your shelves, and used both morning and evening.

Personal daintiness requires fresh lingerie every day. It is no trick to rinse things out. Don't press soiled dresses. Wash them, for the pressing only grinds in the dirt and makes it practically impossible for them to come clean, when washed or cleaned.

If you are a working woman, take a bath and change your clothing the minute you get home. Put your shoes on shoe trees and hang your hats up by the window to let them get proper ventilation. Get into smart gingham or linen lounging things, slip into sandals with no stockings, and apply fresh make-up and fix your hair. You may think you are too tired to do all this. But get into the habit and you'll find yourself rested.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

Decide Now About Your Complexion

By Alicia Hart

Now is the time to consider what you are going to do about your summer complexion.

If you want to go sun tan, then begin using facial oils and cream your neck and arms, so that it will take nicely. When you get a chance to get out in the sun, use a little oil and vinegar mixture over your face and arms. This gives you a start toward tanning that will make your friends think you've had more vacations than you have.

You must use oil or creams, or you'll peel and look miserable. New products on the market make sun tanning a pleasant experience by preparing the skin to receive old Sol amiably.

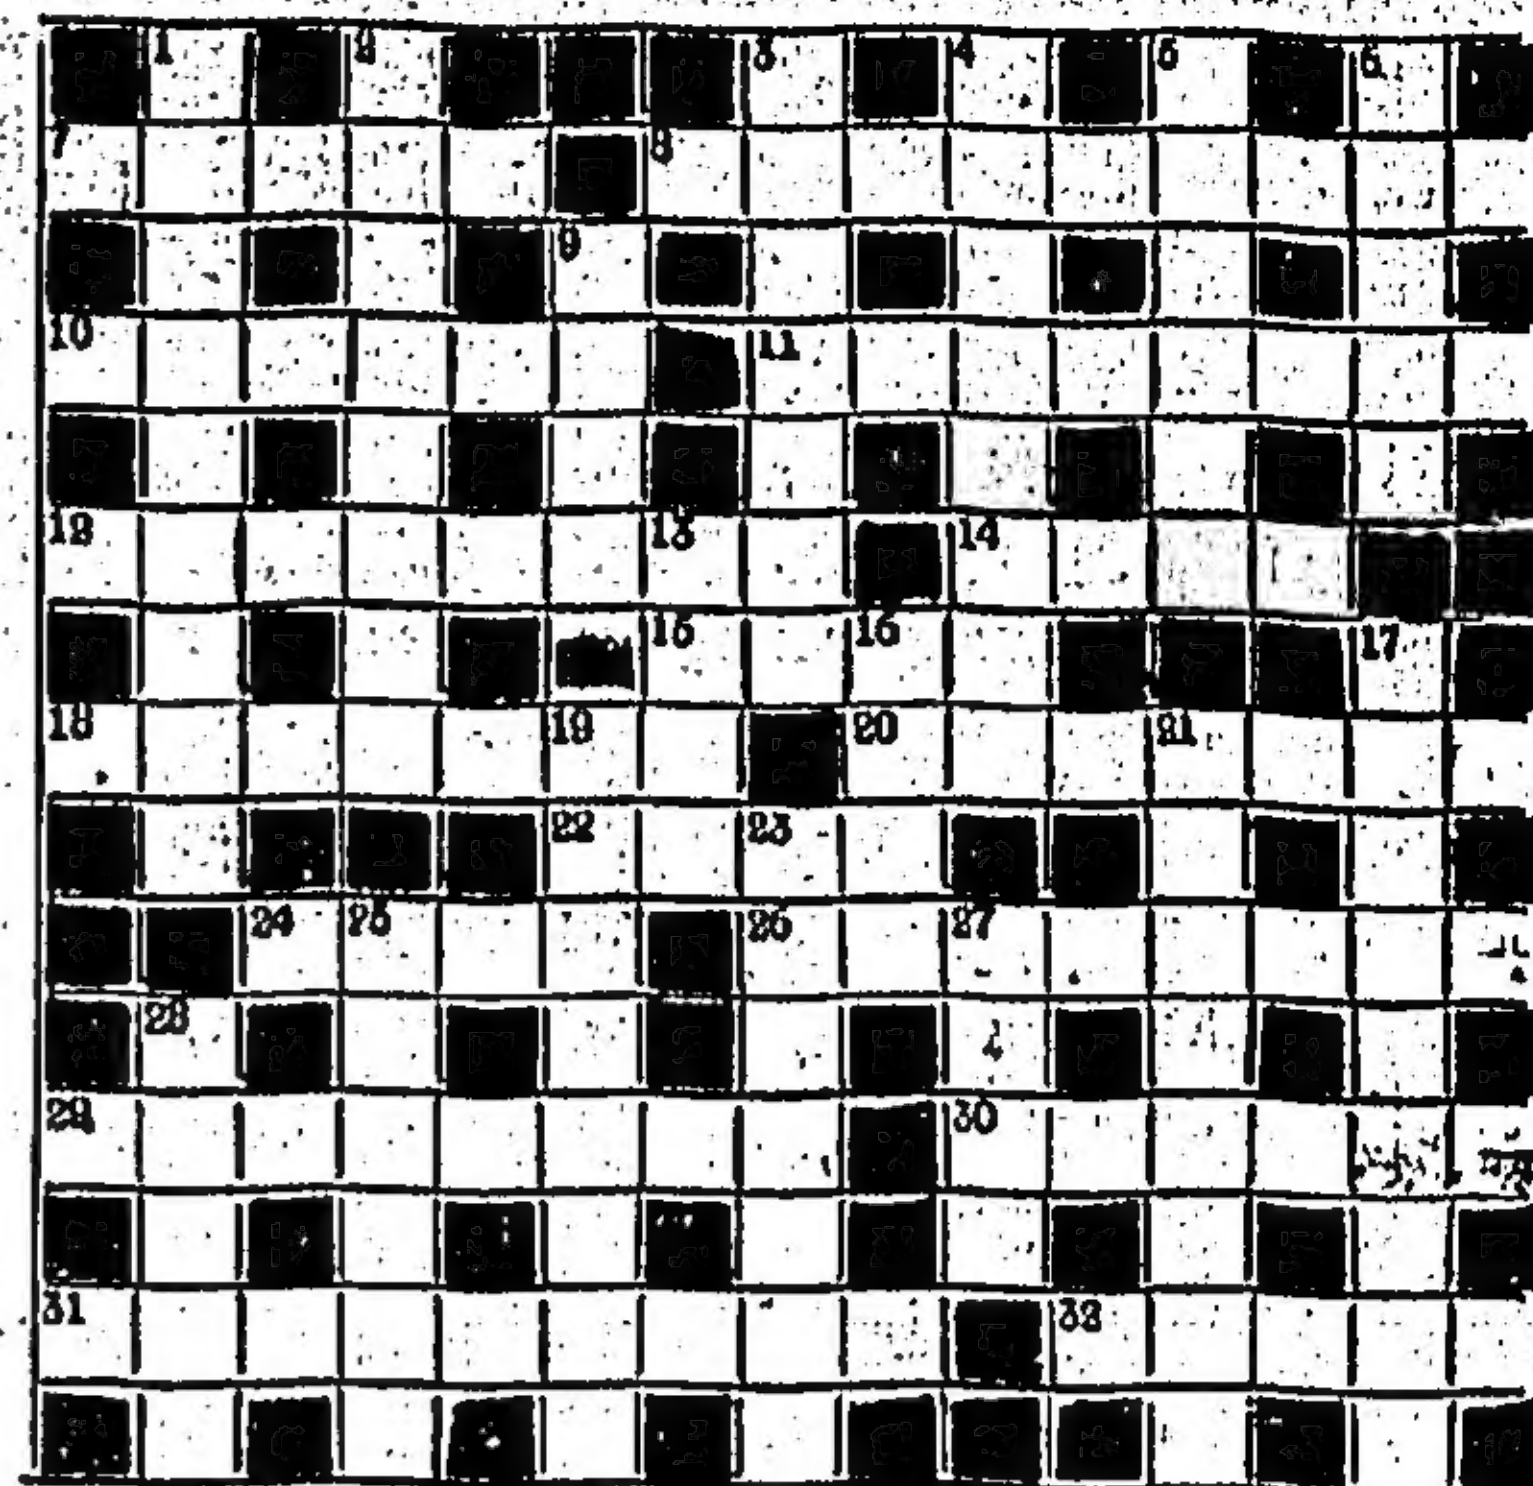

If you don't want to get sun tanned, if you crave a lily white fragile look, then wear brimmed hats and go in for the new gloves. As a matter of fact, gloves are so unusual this year that they're exciting enough to make you shun sun tan.

Also, lay in a supply of bleaching creams. Remember these all are drying. So use a good complexion cream, a rich, nourishing cream on your skin when you finish.

If you freckle then you should begin now applying some of the freckle creams that help prevent and cure them.

First of all, and most important, decide what kind of a beauty you want this summer. For before you know it, nature will take care of it for you.

CHAPTER XXXIX

Charles Eustace, tall, lean and elegant in his dinner clothes, lounged against the fireplace in Sandra Lawrence's home.

"I asked you to come in," Sandra said softly, "because there was something special I wanted to talk about. Sit down."

The young man shot her a rapier glance out of keen dark eyes, then subsided into a deep red chair. The girl, affecting a demureness and shyness foreign to her, stared into the flames.

"You're going to the party tonight, I suppose," Charles ventured in the awkward silence.

"Oh, yes. That was it," Sandra said. To Charles' puzzled stare she continued, "Someone told me you were angry at me and I did so want to get things straightened out before we met when there were people present. So awkward—" her voice trailed off.

Charles grinned. "Angry at you? But that's absurd. Why should I be?"

"I don't know!" Sandra gave him a fleeting glance from under long lashes. "It does sound silly, doesn't it, when we know each other really so little. Only—well—I fancied perhaps someone had talked about me prejudiced you against me on account of your friendship for someone else."

This was arrant nonsense and Charles said so. His agreeable voice seemed to soften the blow. "What, precisely," he inquired amiably, "do you mean?"

Sandra laid her cards on the table. "You do like Monica O'Dare awfully, don't you?"

He stiffened. "Yes, I do. Does she come into this?"

Sandra shrugged, a gesture she had perfected. "A bit. You see, she used to want Danny and he's ruined."

"Oh, yes?" Charles seemed faintly bored but any close observer would have noted the sudden gleam in his eyes. "He always has been, really," said Sandra, warming to her topic. A year or two ago he and Monnie had a bit of a flirtation. He didn't take it seriously but she did. Poor girl, she hadn't much experience with beaux and Dan is such a lamb he didn't know she'd misunderstand."

Charles stood up, not liking any of this. "I'm not at all sure she did," he interrupted. "My impression always has been that the affair was about fifty-fifty."

"Aren't you quaint?" trilled Sandra. "It wasn't at all. I know them both so I have the straight of it."

"But what," demanded Charles with some impatience, "has all this to do with me?" He looked rather ostentatiously at the watch he had been fidgeting for a moment.

"I thought I'd like you to know how matters stood," the girl told him glibly. "I didn't want you to believe I'd done any poaching. Someone told me you'd said—"

"I never talk about women," Eustace said, a note of harshness coming into his voice. "I leave that to their own sex. You must excuse me now. I'm overdue at my uncle's."

He was fuming as he took his hat and coat from the maid at the front door. The girl was a fool. There were no two ways about it. What did she expect to gain by talking about Monnie to him? Was she really, as Kay believed, such an enemy to Monnie that she would deliberately try to undermine her with Charles after having stolen Dan from under her nose? Or was it a bit more complex—was Sandra such an egoist that she wished everyone, even Charles Eustace who knew her so casually, to think well of her? However it was, she was a nasty little cat and he sincerely disliked her.

He walked off into the autumn night, frowning. Why hadn't he told her exactly what he thought of her, he asked himself. She hated Monnie—that much was plain. How had she dared to speak of her in that tone to him? Charles acknowledged with a pang, that Monnie's absence cost him a great deal. He was missing her more than he would have believed possible a year ago. She was so sweet. That was it—so everlastingly sweet and clean and desirable! She made all these other girls with their poses and affectations and meannesses look drab and uninteresting.

Monnie—he admitted it to himself at last—had come to be the core and centre of his life. He loved her—and she was in love with another man. There was nothing he could do about it. Unconsciously he groaned to himself. Nothing he could do, he repeated, except to stand by and be her friend if she needed one. He rather thought she would.

The party of which Sandra had spoken was a barn dance at the summer-place of the Bliss's, some 15 miles out on the river road. The great studio-barn was heaped, for the occasion, with sheaves and decorated with pumpkins, corn-stalks, russet leaves and gourds. Charles, bored with the idea of assembling a special costume for the affair, knotted a bandanna over his crackling shirt front and lounged on the sidelines, watching the merriment. Geraldine Cardigan, looking rather prettier than usual in a fresh blue gingham, whirled by in the arms of one of the Payne boys and waved to him. He saw Dan dancing with Sandra and looked away. There was no doubt about it, the girl was attractive in a feline sort of way. Dan, he observed, was rather the worse for wear. He had been stopping at the punch bowl in the corner a bit too often and his step was slightly unsteady. Sandra seemed to be in her element. She didn't, Charles thought, drink at all but she was gayer than those who did. Her trilling laughter sounded often. Her fullskirted frock of yellow stuff, billowing about her, was the merest burlesque of a milkmaid's costume. A milkmaid from the Rue De La Paix.

"Good lookin' girl!" Charles turned to find Lance Waterman, one of his cousins, at his elbow. Charles grunted.

"Hear they're makin' a go of it," Lance indicated Dan who was weaving in and out in the intricacies of the dance.

"I believe they are."

"Her father's been helpin' old man Cardigan ever since the market took that dip," observed Lance disappointedly and Charles reflected that it was a disadvantage in many ways to live in a town where every one else knew your business. He had heard the gossip, too, and felt rather sorry for Dan, even though he disliked him. The fellow had charm of a sort. He could quite understand what Monnie saw in him. Dan was what most girls called "frightfully handsome." Yes, there was something about him. But what a bouncer—to pass up a chance at a girl like Monnie because he wanted money. Or was he judging Dan unfairly. You could never be sure.

Charles was bored, wanting to go home, but too kind-hearted to offend his hostess by so doing. Everything palled on him nowadays—especially these parties where there was a noisy band and everyone shouting above it. Those picnics with Monnie and her family last summer—he had enjoyed those. He had been really happy then. Happier than he'd ever been before.

He could not have told when he noticed something was in the air, something—quite obviously apart from the party itself. There were whispers in little groups. Something electric imparted itself to the gathering. Charles was mildly puzzled and amused, too.

CINEMA SCREENINGS

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRES

"Zoo in Budapest" opening to-day at the King's Theatre, is the first independent production by Jesse L. Lasky under the new arrangement made with Fox Film.

The story of "Zoo in Budapest" is one of novel proportions. As its background it has a Continental zoological park, where animals are kept in an nearly a natural state as possible. With this atmosphere established, the plot reveals a romance between a young man who has always identified the park as his home, and a girl who visits the park as one of a group of students from a state orphanage. The love between these two youngsters is an ingenious one, taking its tone from the examples of rugged nature around them.

The cast, in support of Miss Loretta Young and Gene Raymond, is headed by O. P. Heggie in the role of a sympathetic doctor. Others in the cast are Wally Albright, Paul Ede, Murray Kinell, Ruth Warren, Roy Stewart, Frances Rich, Miles Welch, Lucille Ward, Russ Powell and Dorothy Libaica.

"What! No Beer?"

The human eye is a more important factor in film comedy than the ear. So says Edward Sedgwick, who directs the Buster Keaton-Jimmy Durante film comedies, the latest of which, "What! No Beer?" comes tomorrow to the Queen's Theatre. Sedgwick holds that talking pictures have imposed less change on the technique of comedy than of drama. "Audiences respond more readily to what they see than to what they hear," he avers. "That is why the 'gag' is still the most vital factor in screen comedy. It is what the players do, more than what they say, which provokes the deepest mirth. Actions still speak louder than words."

In taking this view, however, Sedgwick distinguishes between comedy relief in drama and pure comedy of the Keaton-Durante type. "In drama," he explains, "the effect of comedy relief depends wholly on the situation. If the situation is dramatic, anything tending to relieve tension will draw a laugh. A single word spoken facetiously can produce this effect."

"But in purely comic plays the situation, while it must be inherently funny to begin with, gets its effect from the manner of working out the situation. In other words, how the situation is 'gagged.' Dialogue usually convulses stage audiences usually draws only snickers from the screen."

"The gag acts as a change of pace. It is a divergence from the story action, a sort of intermission which comes without stopping the story. That is the way our present and other Keaton-Durante plots are built. First the scenario and dialogue writers work out their script, then we take it and punch holes in it. Each hole represents a place for the insertion of a gag."

"Just My Luck"

"Just My Luck" tells the story of a music teacher with whom Fato had always been surly. Until he reached the age of thirty-five he had bowed to what appeared to be the inevitable. As a music teacher he was more or less of a success, but his pupil believed that there was more in him than the diffident surface revealed, and did her best to encourage him. Suddenly he lost his job and bumped against a man who had always been successful because he believed in himself and so infected others with his enthusiasm that they accepted him and the ability he claimed to possess at his own valuation.

The music teacher absorbed the lesson to such good effect that his diffidence disappeared as he replaced his sombre garb with the shining outfit of a brilliant man, and at once he "snuffed" a first-rate position.

The intricacies of the story provide Ralph Lynn with characteristic situations, and Jack Raymond has directed the picture with such understanding that the notable success achieved by actor and director in "Mischief" will be altogether outshone in "Just My Luck."

Winifred Shotter is at her very best in the picture, while Dave Burnaby, in his first British and Dominion production, is said to score heavily. Vera Pearce playing a prominent part with him. "Just My Luck" will open at the Central Theatre tomorrow.

"The Passionate Plumber"

The diverting story of a plumber whose presence in a lady's bath-room leads to a series of uproarious complications provides for no end of laughter and amusement in "The Passionate Plumber," which will be screened at the Oriental Theatre on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. Buster Keaton, Jimmy Durante and Polly Moran are the chief makers in this farce.

The laughs start when Keaton is forced to sign a "love contract" in which he guarantees to make violent love to Irene Furchell whenever Gilbert Roland, her fickle suitor, is around. In an attempt to give satisfactory service, Keaton is precipitated into a series of madcap escapades in which he engages in sidesplitting duels, attempts to play the old ruse, impersonates a doctor when he is caught in a lady's bed-room and finally is made the butt of a terrific barrage of flying dishes and statuary.

The inimitable Durante, of course, is always on hand to set things right but more often succeeds in making them worse. What with his riotous romance with Polly Moran, who goes demure on us in this comedy, Durante achieves the difficult feat of being even funnier than he was in "Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford."

"The Third String"

W. W. Jacobs' delightful trio of rascals, Ginger Dick, Peter Russett and Sam Small, become gloriously articulate in a talking film version of "The Third String," their funniest adventure, which will be shown at the King's Theatre next change.

Ginger's hopeless love for the fielder Miss Tucker, his pals' droll, double-crossing attempts and his vain but Homeric encounter with burly Bill Lumm are just the right ingredients for a screen comedy that has humanity as well as humour in its composition.

Sandy Powell, Mark Daly and Charles Paton as the incorrigible trio, Kay Hammond as the girl with "three strings to her bow," and Alf Goddard as "Bill Lumm," have skillfully caught the spirit of the author's engaging characters. Similarly George Pearson has, in his direction, maintained the attractive atmosphere of W. W. Jacobs' popular series of yarns.

"The Third String," in short, is a British comedy with a ready-made popularity that ensures its appreciative acceptance by audiences everywhere.

"Platinum Blonde"

Columbia Pictures has tried an interesting and novel experiment in casting two definite types in roles which seem at first to be almost the exact opposites of their own personalities.

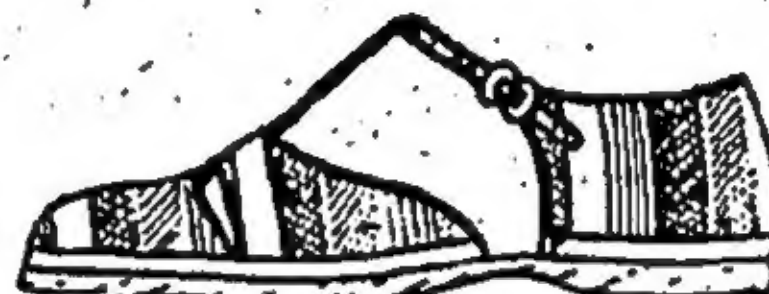

Loretta Young and Jean Harlow, who work together in one picture for the first time in Columbia's dazzling and sophisticated romantic drama, "Platinum Blonde," now showing at the Queen's Theatre, represent two extreme types of modern beauty.

Loretta is the calm, poised, tranquil type, whose beauty is best described as flower-like. It has an emotional quality seldom equalled among the favourites of the screen.

Jean Harlow, on the other hand, is spectacular, flashing, brilliant, devastating. Here is a moody kind of loveliness, a type that dazzles and demands attention.

NEW NATIONAL PARK

CANADA'S LATEST ACQUISITION

AREA OF 1,148 SQ. MILES

Winnipeg, Canada.
On July 26th, a new national park will be added to Canada's national playgrounds and game preserves. The new reservation which has an area of 1,148 square miles is situated on a plateau about 150 miles to the northwest of the city of Winnipeg in the province of Manitoba. With its boundaries are numbers of moose and deer, a small herd of bison and from two to three thousand wild elk or wapiti. These elk comprise one of the largest herds of this kind remaining in Canada.

The park is a well wooded highland area with several beautiful lakes within its boundaries. On the shores of Lake Clear the largest body of water in the park a summer colony and tourist camp have been established. An important feature of the new park is its accessibility. It is approached by good highways from various centres of the province and from the international boundary so that it will probably prove an attractive region for tourists.

The people of Canada are perhaps quite justly proud of the Dominion's national park system. It has been the policy of the present and former government to set apart, before the land becomes too densely settled, suitable areas of lake, river, mountain and woodland as recreation centres for future generations of Canadians and travellers from other lands who come to visit the Dominion. One of the main objects also of the creation of the national parks has been to preserve the wild life of the Dominion which with the encroachment of an industrial population might have been doomed to ultimate extinction. In two of the great national game preserves the bison which had practically disappeared from the face of the earth now roams in great numbers. Some of the most picturesque and largest of the parks are located in the Rocky Mountain areas of British Columbia, the Pacific coast province.—Reuter.

IMPROVING DANZIG HIGHWAYS

GOVERNMENT VOTE A BIG SUM

Danzig.

A sum of over $52,000 has been allotted by the Danzig Government for the improvement of the highways in the Free State.

The roads between Danzig and Elbing and Danzig and Marienburg are to be widened, and the distance will be shortened by the construction of a by-pass round the town of Tiegendorf.

It is estimated that this will employ 1,000 men for about 3 months, or give a total of 100,000 working days.—Reuter.

Blonde Woman Living With A Tribe

STRANGE FIND BY EXPLORER

Port-of Spain, (Trinidad).
A beautiful blonde woman living with a tribe of blacks in the unknown jungle of Dutch Guiana is the strange discovery claimed by Captain Ralph Donaldson, the American explorer and Fellow of the National Geographical Society.

Captain Donaldson, who makes motion pictures as a hobby, has just landed here on his way back to New York with thousands of feet of some of the most unusual film ever made.

The blonde woman was seen by Captain Donaldson surrounded by Djunckers, descendants of African slaves, hundreds of miles from civilisation. He says that she has a wonderful face and figure, and is aged about 26. She has straight fair hair and black eyes.

CAMERA SHY.

He did not hear her speak and saw her for only five minutes as she ran away, camera-shy, into the village.

She was wearing nothing but a short skirt.

Captain Donaldson declared she was quite unlike an albino and bore no traces of civilisation. His guides told him that she came from a region near the source of the Surinam River. "There are many more like her there," they averred.

The guides refused to approach this territory, however, because they feared hostile Indians.

FUTURE OF SILVER

While Mr. Pittman's enthusiasm has emerged unscathed through the slings and arrows of the silver battle in London, it would be unsafe to take anything for granted. Much more progress has been made than at one time seemed likely. The much-amended American resolution has been unanimously adopted both by the silver Committee and the Monetary Subcommittee which is dealing with permanent measures for world recovery. In its present form, however, it represents nothing more than an outline of the steps which could be taken with advantage in certain circumstances and offers them as recommendations. Precept will become practice when, and only when, the eight principal powers are able to reach final agreement. Mr. Pittman says he is confident that the initialing stage will be reached to-day, but even that is not enough. There are still difficulties to be overcome in which connection even the famous Silver Senator preserves a mildly cautious tone, admitting to the probability of a delay of one or two months. When the optimistic chief advocate confesses to so much, it is as well for others to watch the situation very closely. A warning is necessary because there seems to be a tremendous amount of speculation going on in the Colony, based upon the belief that silver rehabilitation measures are an ultimate certainty. The gamblers should begin to mark time, particularly as the feeling is again beginning to gain ground in influential circles that artificial silver inflation will not provide the benefits claimed. In China, it is admitted, a rise in price would theoretically increase China's purchasing power. But, it is argued, the effect works both ways. Cheap silver should stimulate China's exports, setting up credits which increase her power to make purchases abroad. If silver went up, her exports would be retarded and credits abroad would shrink. It is notable, too, that Mr. T. V. Soong desires stabilisation rather than what is termed rehabilitation. And India's final decision on cooperation in an eight-power agreement is not at all certain. While we feel that the benefits of higher prices would ultimately outweigh the disadvantages, it would be foolhardy to bet on the outcome.

NOTES OF THE DAY

Japan is in a strange mood. She needs sympathy and understanding rather than criticism. The extraordinary virulence of the press campaign against Great Britain is just further example of the frame of mind induced in the island race by injured feelings. It is but another symptom of the xenophobia provoked by the world's judgment upon the Manchuria adventure. Outwardly cynical, Japan feels her position deeply. She finds relief by venting her spleen. If the attack may correctly be compared to the hot temper of the individual, which dies away as rapidly as it develops, no real harm will be done.

WEATHER PHENOMENA

Hongkong gets its full share of weather phenomena. The discomfort of the past day or two caused by the close proximity of a developing typhoon has impressed the fact, if any proof were required. The sight of a brilliant rainbow, stretching across the harbour from the vicinity of the Post Office to Lantau Island, the other day, however, reminded us of the comparative rarity of such spectacles in the Colony. In most parts of the world, rainbows are so common as to pass almost unnoticed. Here they attract a good deal of attention. It would be interesting to know whether there is any definite reason for this. It probably has to do with the topography and the heaviness, as a rule, of our rains.

CICALA INCIDENT

It is difficult to withhold a measure of sympathy for the stoker who appeared before a naval court-martial yesterday, even while accepting the necessity for maintaining a rigid standard of discipline in the Royal Navy and the truth of the old saw, "hard cases make good law." His story, frank and containing no attempt to excuse himself, seemed to ring a genuine note. Stranger things have happened as a result of a drink or two and exposure to a broiling sun than the rather remarkable sequence of events which occurred aboard the Cicala through the instrument of the accused. His commanding officer had nothing but praise to bestow regarding his previous conduct. We cannot but believe that the unusual circumstances will be borne in mind when such matters as the man's pension are under consideration.

TARIFF ILLOGICALITY

The recent increase in Chinese customs tariffs has made itself felt in several unexpected quarters. Under the somewhat picturesque title of "Teahouse gang", groups of Chinese have hitherto enjoyed a lucrative business in the export of second-hand furniture to Canton, Amoy and other Southern ports. Their chief hunting grounds have been the local auctions sales, but interest in these has declined, thanks to the new customs imposition. The tariff has forced the professional dealers to fix a maximum bid, and whenever this is exceeded by private bidders, the "teahouse gang" discreetly withdraw. An open market has now become to them a business deal which requires circumspect treatment. The net result is that auctioneers, dealers and purchasers all suffer and the grasping hand of the fiscal system is denied its spoils.

RISE OF FASCISM

The challenge to representative government as an institution has so often been repeated in recent years as to become almost a commonplace. One country after another has forsaken its ranks in favour of a more dictatorial, less cumbersome and, so it is argued, more effective form of government. Even in the countries which have remained faithful to democracy there are not wanting signs of revolt, so loudly does the machine sometimes creak, so heavily does it roll. When in the United States, recently, the adjournment of its representative body is greeted with a sign of relief by the nation in general, it was surely time for the apologist to step in. There are of course many reasons for the failure of democracy in specific instances. It is obviously a form of government which makes great demands on a people and unless they are able to rise to these demands, other forces are likely to intervene and seize control.

IS THIS THE ROAD TO ECONOMIC RECOVERY?

By Herbert Tracey

Employment for a million workless wage-earners by October 1 next is one of the predicted results of the Industrial Recovery Act, signed last week by the American President.

The Act, which has been put into force at once, is a remarkable measure.

It was designed by President Roosevelt to establish "the machinery necessary for a great co-operative movement throughout all industry in order to obtain wide re-employment, to shorten the work-week, to pay a decent wage for the shorter week, and to prevent unfair competition and disastrous over-production."

One of its provisions enables the American industries to set up "codes of fair practice", which must be approved by the President and which then become enforceable by law, dealing with minimum wages, maximum working hours, prices and production, and other matters; such as unfair competitive practices, and even matters of accountancy.

These codes must recognise the right of the workers to organise and to bargain collectively. The Act authorises the President to facilitate collective bargaining on wages and working hours; where agreements are not made, he may impose them; and agreements, when framed, are to have the force of law.

PERMANENT SYSTEM.

If necessary, the President may institute a system of licenses in an industry in order to make a code effective, and branches of licensing provisions will be punishable by fine or imprisonment.

Provision is also made to secure information and authority for the establishment of an industrial planning and research agency. The purpose of the Act, in fact, is not merely to supply temporary expedients for overcoming the emergency, but to lay the foundations of a permanent system of industrial planning and control.

Not without reason, therefore, has the President himself described the Act as the most important and far-reaching legislation ever enacted by the American Congress. "It represents a supreme effort (said the President) to stabilise for all time the many factors which make for the prosperity of the nation and the preservation of American standards."

Mr. Roosevelt has claimed for this measure that it carries out the "simple proposition" he laid down in his inaugural address, that nobody in the country would be allowed to starve.

"It seems to me equally plain (the President added) that no business which depends for existence upon paying less than a living wage has any right to continue in this country . . . and by a living wage I mean more than a bare subsistence level—I mean the wages of a decent living."

PUBLIC WORKS PROGRAMME.

The most important provisions of the Act, so far as it relates to unemployment, are those which deal with the President's programme of public works. He is authorised to proceed with projects of road construction and improvement, public buildings, conservation of natural resources, and any works hitherto undertaken by public authorities; the construction, under public regulation or control, of low-cost housing and slum clearance schemes; the building of warships within the limits laid down by naval treaties, and the mechanisation of the army.

All these works are to be undertaken either directly, or under contract by the Federal Government, or by the States, or the municipalities.

Local authorities will receive grants from the Federal Government up to 30 per cent of the cost, such grants, however, to be made only to those authorities which are at least trying to balance their budgets.

All contracts are to specify minimum rates of wages, which are to provide "a standard of living in decency and comfort," and working hours are to be restricted as far as possible to 30 hours per week.

To finance this programme the Government will issue bonds, to the maximum of $3,000,000,000 (about $600,000,000 at par) a year, with an annual sinking fund attached of 2½ per cent of the amount issued. To carry out the policy the President has appointed an Administrator of the Act, and another Administrator of the programme of public works.

He has also set up boards, consisting largely of members of his Cabinet to co-operate with these Administrators; and the Administrator of the Act will also have an advisory council of industrialists and Trade Union leaders to assist him.

The President, within a few hours of the Act being passed, authorised the allotment of $400,000,000 (about $80,000,000) to States, to get on with the programme of road construction within thirty days.

A sum of about half this amount has been allotted to the Navy Department for the construction of 32 new ships and other requirements of the new naval programme.

DESPERATE STRAITS.

In a comment upon this remarkable Act, Mr. William Green, President of the American Federation of Labour, says the placing of such far-reaching powers of control in the President's hands reflects the desperate straits of business.

Income and wealth have been dissipated at an appalling rate, and business is so near standstill that drastic measures are obviously necessary to prevent national bankruptcy.

It was at the instance of the A.F. of L. that provision was inserted in the Act to safeguard the rights of the workers, especially the right of free association in Trade Unions, which were—in the terms of the A.F. of L. amendment—"to be free from the interference, restraint or coercion of employers of labour or their agents, in the designation of such representatives or in self-organisation or in other concerted activities for the purposes of collective bargaining or other mutual aid or protection."

The President has had a difficult struggle with Congress to secure the passage of this measure. Some of the powers it confers upon him are limited in their exercise to two years.

SOONG IN BERLINSEEKING ECONOMIC COOPERATIONWARM WELCOME
AT STATION

Berlin, July 21.
Mr. T. V. Soong was given a warm welcome on his arrival in Berlin to-day. He was greeted at the station by a representative of the Hitler Government and the staff of the Chinese Legation.

Large crowds thronged the entrances to the platform. The object of Mr. Soong's visit is stated to be to make contact with industrialists and economic experts in Berlin and Hamburg with a view to closer economic co-operation between German and Chinese industrialists, who are hoping for profitable orders as a result of the visit.

The Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung welcomes Mr. Soong as "one of the most distinguished statesmen and one of the most far-seeing politicians of our time."

The Journal adds: "In no country will he find a more complete understanding of the position of his people than in Germany, which like China, has had to fight hard for national restoration."

THE ALHAMBRA
THEATREEXPECTED TO OPEN SHORTLY

The last stage in the completion of the Alhambra Theatre, the latest addition to Hongkong's cinemas, has been reached, and cinema-goers may now look forward to the opening in the near future of the new theatre.

During the past few days, seats to accommodate nearly 1,800 have been placed in the building. The accommodation is as follows: Dress Circle 611, First Class 314, Second Class 416, Third Class 402, and about 80 box seats.

The films will be shown on the popular Western Electric sound system, and an air-cooling plant will also be installed.

Construction work was commenced in the summer of 1931, but the interior decoration and other work has been long delayed. The building covers an area of 20,000 square feet, and is situated in Nathan Road, at the junction of Kansu Street, just beyond the Po Hing Theatre.

SUICIDESIODINE, OPIUM AND DROWNING

Pang Sik-wa, living at 328, Queen's Road Central, endeavored to poison himself with iodine, but was discovered early on and rushed to the Government Civil Hospital, where his condition is improving.

A destitute, Wang Yu-kong, was rescued after throwing himself from the new Wanchai Praya, and was removed to Hospital after receiving first-aid.

A third case concerned Ho Lau-ying, a married woman, who after a domestic quarrel, took a big dose of opium. She was in semi-conscious state when taken to the Kwong Wah Hospital.

CHINESE JURIST ON BENCHDR. CHENG'S VISIT TO HONGKONGAN INTERESTING CAREER

An interested observer of the Shaukiwan murder trial was Dr. F. T. Cheng, LL.D. (London) and Political Vice-Minister of Justice in the National Government of China at Nanking.

Himself a barrister-at-law and formerly in practice at Hongkong, Dr. Cheng attended the trial at the invitation of the Chief Justice, Mr. J. R. Wood, and had an opportunity of renewing his acquaintance with the court in which he himself once figured as defending counsel in a cause celebre.

Dr. Cheng is combining a visit to his relatives here with a study of summary jurisdiction procedure in British law and in addition to attending the Criminal Sessions, he has visited the Magistracy and Victoria Gaol. Apart from natural sympathy derived from his training, he is of opinion that English law is more expeditious than China's legal system which is based on the Confucian style.

A Cantonese, educated partly at Queen's College, Dr. Cheng went abroad to study at a later period than is customary among his compatriots and after some ventures into the world of commerce, he entered London University and read for the Bar. He was called to the Bar, Middle Temple, about 1913, and two years later gained the coveted distinction of being the first Chinese to become a Doctor of Law. This feat has only once been emulated, by Mr. M. Z. Tyau, sometime Councillor in the Chinese Foreign Office. Dr. Cheng's thesis dealt with the "Rules of Private Capacity to Contract" and it is still quoted as an authority.

In 1917, Dr. Cheng returned to China and was admitted to practice in this Colony. He was briefed in the trial of a Chinese from the New Territories who was indicted for the murder of his mother, and his mastery and temperate conduct of the defence drew congratulatory remarks from the then Lord Chief Justice Sir William Rees Davies.

Subsequently, Dr. Cheng entered the service of the Chinese Government, then at Peking, and became one of the pioneers of the modernisation of the legal system. He translated the laws of China into English, and his "Supreme Court Decisions, Peking" became the common law of China. He also drafted the Civil Code.

When Marshal Sun Chuan-fang succeeded in dissolving the Mixed Court at Shanghai, and the Provisional Court came into being, he invited Dr. Cheng to be the first President. For personal reasons, Dr. Cheng refused, to the disappointment of many in the International Settlement and out of it. He evidently found his work as one of China's delegates on the Extraterritorial Commission congenial, however, and won the respect of all other delegates.

After a brief period of practice in Shanghai as a lawyer, during which he was retained on several occasions to advise Hongkong practitioners on Chinese laws, Dr. Cheng accepted the invitation of Lo Wen-kan, the present Minister of Justice and Acting Foreign Minister, to re-enter public life and was appointed to his present post in 1932.

When the time comes for further reform in the Chinese Codes, Dr. Cheng will have the advantage of his present visit to aid him.—"Q.M."

NEW YORK STOCK
EXCHANGEYESTERDAY'S MARKET WEAK

According to Messrs. Swan, Culbertson and Frits, the New York market was weak yesterday. Business done 9,570,000 shares. The Wall Street Journal reports:—After an irregular day stampede, selling broke the market late in the afternoon crashing prices from 4 to 13 points, heaviest turnover since late October 1929, and tickers were 40 minutes late. This was due to reports that the Administration was prepared to take drastic action if necessary to halt violent fluctuation in commodities and securities and also stronger dollar. Cotton dropped 40, silver lost 160 points, rubber 120 and silk 7 to 8 cents. Price of Winnipeg wheat closed practically unchanged despite sensational decline of rye futures from 14 to 18 cents. Chicago, Kansas City, Minneapolis, Duluth and other grain exchanges are closed. Later: Just before the close shorts covered heavily causing leaders to rally. The three days' drop however erased nearly half the gains made since the reopening after the bank holiday until Tuesday. The dollar's strength is unexplained, unless due to 2½% sterling issue. The following correction have been received: Dupont De Nemours—60, Kennecott Copper—19½, McIntyre Precipitate Mines—28½.

"SEADROME" IN ATLANTIC

TRANS-OCEAN SERVICE

ACROSS THE POND IN 30 HOURS

Norfolk, Virginia.

Plans for the first "seadrome" in the Atlantic Ocean, 470 miles northeast of Cape Henry, as the initial step in a trans-ocean aeroplane service from Norfolk and New York to Europe, have been made public here by Captain Hugh Duncan Grant, a British meteorologist and consultant of the Armstrong Seadrome Development Corporation, which is backing the project.

Captain Grant predicted that a service for passengers, mail and freight would be opened in the autumn of 1934. He said that regular 30 hour air journeys from Norfolk (Virginia) to European points would be attempted.

SATISFACTORY TESTS.

The first "seadrome" has been constructed and anchored near her for experimental purposes and has been pronounced satisfactory in initial tests. Captain Grant said that five of these "seadromes" are to be constructed and anchored approximately 500 miles apart between the American coast and Spain or Portugal. They will serve as landing fields for the transatlantic planes. Each "seadrome" will be equipped with accommodations for 300 persons, with aeroplane shops, hotel, miniature golf courses and other facilities for transatlantic passengers while each "island" will have a resident personnel of from 100 to 125 persons.

Number one seadrome will be located in longitude 38 north, latitude 66 west (approximately), or from 450 to 500 miles by air from Norfolk and about the same distance southeast of New York. Three other seadromes are to be placed west of the Azores and a fifth between Azores and Vigo, Spain, or Lisbon, Portugal.—Reuter.

MAN-EATING LIONS

TERRIFY WIDE AREA

TWELVE NATIVES TAKEN

Dar es Salaam:

Villages over a wide area, lying only thirty miles from Dar es Salaam, are terrified by a number of man-eating lions.

So far, twelve natives have been taken by the lions.

A traveller from Dar es Salaam early one morning came across parties of Africans answering a drum-beat call to arms. On the previous evening, a man had been taken by one of the lions.

The news was sent throughout the district by drum-beat and instructions were issued for a muster at dawn.

Later, a messenger was sent to Dar es Salaam with the news that the natives themselves could not cope with the situation and that assistance was necessary.

So panic-stricken were the natives that none would leave his hut after sun-down nor venture out until the sun was well up. On their visits to their cultivations, they went well-armed and in groups of three and four.

One party of children saw their mother snatched by a lion and severely mauled.—Reuter.

INTERNATIONAL GATHERINGS

CANADA GETS BIG SHARE

Ottawa, Canada.

This year Canada is having her full share of international gatherings. During the year four of these meetings are being held within the borders of the Dominion. During June the Universal Postal Union Executive held a meeting at Ottawa, while in the West at Vancouver and Victoria in the province of British Columbia representatives of 10 nations were gathered together in the Pacific Science Conference. The World's Grain Exhibition and Conference will open at Regina in the province of Saskatchewan on July 24, with at least 25 countries represented and on August 14 the Institute of Pacific Relations will meet at Banff, province of Alberta.—Reuter.

I Endorse It Without Hesitancy— THE NEW FORD V-8

TIME and again I am told—by my own organization and by others—that I penalize myself by quality.

Friendly critics protest our putting into the Ford V-8 what they call "twenty-year steel." They say such quality is not necessary; the public does not expect it; and that the public does not know the difference anyway.

But I know the difference.

I know that the car a man sees is not the car he drives—he drives the car which the engineer sees. The car which is seen comprises beauty of design, colour and attractive accessories—all desirable, of course. The best evidence that we think so is that they are all found on the Ford V-8.

But these are not the car. The car proper, which is the basis of all the rest, is the type of engine and its reliability; the structure of chassis and body, ruggedly durable; the long thought and experiment given to safety factors; the steady development of comfort, convenience and economy. These make the car.

A car can be built that will last two or three years. But we have never built one. We want the basic material of our car to be as dependable the day it is discarded as the day it is bought. Ford cars built 15 years ago are still on the road. It costs more to build a durable car—but two items we do not skimp are cost and conscience. A great many things could "get by"—the public would never know the difference. But we would know.

The New Ford V-8 is a car that I endorse without any hesitancy. I know what is in it. I trust our whole thirty years' reputation with it. It is even better than our previous V-8. It is larger, more rugged and mechanically a better job all round.

I readily say this in an advertisement because I know the car will back it up.

NINE OUT OF TEN BUICK OWNERS BUY BUICKS AGAIN AND AGAIN

The Dragon Motor Car Co., Ltd.

Telephone 30228.

33, Wong Nei Chung Road, Happy Valley.

The 1933 Buick Straight Eight is the logical result of more than 29 years' experience in building fine motor cars—famous the world over for long, reliable performance.

For into the 1933 Buick is incorporated—not only the fundamental features of engineering and design which have won such outstanding recognition for Buicks of the past—but new styling, and new and improved mechanical features which provide even greater beauty, greater smoothness and an even higher degree of safety and riding comfort.

Here in the 1933 Buick is new smartness, harmonizing with to-day's demand for a lower car . . . 'Wind-stream' styling . . . and proportions of greater symmetry and beauty.

Here is interior luxury, in fittings and appointments; comfort in modish and enduring upholstery; big and little conveniences that add so much to genuine motoring satisfaction.

Here, too, are new and improved mechanical features . . . many of them automatic which make driving still more effortless, and provide a new measure of flashing performance. Here, in brief, is another Buick—upholding the standards that have won three to one leadership for Buick among all cars in its class.

ELECTRIFYING INDUSTRIES

STEADY INCREASE IN CANADA

IN ABSENCE OF COAL

Ottawa, Canada.

The electrification for power purposes of manufacturing industries as well as the use of electricity in the household is rapidly and steadily increasing in Canada. According to an estimate of the governmental bureau of statistics over 75 per cent of Canadian manufacturing industries were electrified in 1931 compared with 61 per cent in 1923. The amount of electric energy used for all purposes in Canada during 1932 amounted to 15,348,000,000 kilowatt hours compared with 15,104,000,000 kilowatt hours in 1931, an increase of 244,000,000 k.h.

Of 35 manufacturing industries more than one third were more than 90 per cent electrified in 1931 and 27 industries had a ratio of over 80 per cent. Two of the electrified industries were the automobile and castings and forging manufacturing industries.

Canada possesses important coal deposits in the East and West but not in the central sections where manufacturing industries are most active, the provinces of Ontario and Quebec being the main manufacturing provinces; Ontario has some coal fields in its northern areas but these are as yet undeveloped. The industries of both Ontario and Quebec and to a large extent some of the other provinces depend on "white coal" or hydro-electric installations for their power. Canada fortunately possesses vast water power capacity of over 43,000,000 horse power. Of this total approximately 7,400,000 h.p. had been exploited by the end of 1932.—Reuter.

FIVE CENTURIES IN ONE MATCH

TALL CRICKET SCORING

KENT DEFEAT MIDDLESEX

SUSSEX RAPIDLY LOSING GROUND

FEATURES OF THE GAMES

London, July 21.
Sussex, one of the few teams threatening Yorkshire's position at the head of the county cricket table, sustained a big set-back when they lost to Notts by nine wickets.

Yorkshire were not engaged and they are therefore materially helped.
Only two other county matches produced outright decisions. Kent, now playing their best cricket of the season, easily accounted for Middlesex and Leicestershire won well against Glamorgan.

WOOLLEY CENTURY.

Kent owed something to Frank Woolley, who, until he appeared at the Tunbridge Wells festival a month ago had been kept out of the team through ill health.

He hit up a century against the Middlesex attack and made possible the Kent score of 452, which exceeded Middlesex's first innings total by 113.

After this Freeman began to operate and in taking 6 for 50, was mainly responsible for the London team's dismissal for 161.
The rest was easy for the Hop county.
Gloucestershire looked like winning

They secured a first innings advantage of 182, but could not make full use of it and Hampshire, thanks to a century by Philip Mead, saved the game, scoring 333 for 6 in their second venture.

FIVE CENTURIES.

The most prolific scoring came from the Warwick-Northants match in which no less than five centuries were registered.

Northants put up the respectable total of 399 in their initial visit to the crease, but from double figures scores by the

POINTS FOR K.C.C. AND U.S.R.C.

The mixed doubles league is quickly drawing to a close and next week should see the destination of the

The Chinese R.C., the present leaders, have one match outstanding, against the Club de Recreio who yesterday went down to the Kowloon C.C. by eight and a half sets to a half.

Two matches were played off yesterday, the U.S.R.C. and the Kowloon C.C. emerging winners. The former had the "Ladies" R.C. as their opponents and won by conceding two and a half sets.

DAVIS CUP TIES

DENMARK WIN EASILY

IRELAND IN A BAD WAY

London, July 21.

Denmark scored a very easy victory in their qualifying tie for the 1934 Davis Cup tournament against Greece, securing the last two singles to win by the final scores of four rubbers to one.

Xydis offered no resistance to Jacobsen, who had the satisfaction of winning in all of his three appearances, whilst Ulrich disposed of Stalos in four sets.

Jacobsen conceded seven games in beating Xydis, and this clinched the issue.

The scores were:

Jacobsen (Denmark) beat
Xydis 6-1, 6-3, 6-3.

Ulrich (Denmark) beat Stalos
6-4, 6-1, 4-6, 6-3.

GERMANY'S BIG LEAD.

Germany acquired a tremendous advantage in their qualifying Davis Cup tie with Ireland which opened in Dublin to-day.

Nourney, Germany's No. 2 took four sets in which to beat McQuire, but Von Cramm was much more severe on Lyttleton Rogers and won in straight sets.

When McQuire won the second set against Nourney after losing the first, there were distinct prospects of an Irish success, but the visitor took command of the exchanges, and indulging in a well directed all-court game, walked away with the succeeding two sets at 6-4, 6-3.

ROGERS DISAPPOINTS.

Rogers, the giant Irishman, gave a disappointing display against Von Cramm. At no time did he produce anything like the form which has made him a great match player and has earned for him dozens of tournament titles in England and on the Continent.

Von Cramm, driving superbly and volleying with telling effect, took the first set with the loss of a single game. He maintained his great form and captured the next two sets conceding only eight games.

Scores: Nourney (Germany) beat Mc-
Quire 6-1, 1-6, 6-4, 6-3.

Von Cramm (Germany) beat Lyttleton Rogers 6-1, 6-4, 6-4.

U.S. SWIMMERS' GREAT FORM

Jones Beach,
Long Is., July 21.
Two world's swimming records went by the board in the American national swimming championships staged here
to-day.

Brilliant achievements were credited to Eleanor Holm and Leon Knight.

The former beat her own world record for the 220 yards backstroke by three-fifths of a second.
She covered the distance in 2 minutes 57 1/5 seconds. Her previous record figures were 2 minutes 57 4/5 seconds.

Miss Knight followed this up by smashing Helen Madison's great figures for the 440 yards freestyle.
She swam the distance in 5 minutes 33 3/5 seconds as against Miss Madison's world record time of 5 minutes 39 4/5 seconds, clipping no less than 5 1/5 seconds off the existing time.—Reuter.

5 CENTURIES IN ONE MATCH

Warwick through the medium of Santall, Croom and Kilner, topped this and finally the innings was declared closed at 505 for 8.

There was never any chance of a decisive verdict, and Northants merely played out time.

Lancashire lost grip on a game with Essex which at one time they appeared to have in their pockets.

The northerners compiled 433
in reply to Essex score of 377, but the Lancashire bowlers could make no impression when Essex batted a second time and stumps were drawn with the Eastern County team with 200 runs on the board and five wickets in hand.

Notts completely outplayed Sussex, dismissing the Southern side for 157 and 195, and in turn scoring 305 themselves.

This Players, as expected, quickly finished off their match against the Gentlemen winning by ten wickets.

The Gentlemen carried their overnight score of 152 for 6 to 177, this leaving the professionals to score a dozen runs. Naturally they were obtained without loss.
